Hyperspectral Data Compression Author Giovanni

Hyperspectral Data Compression provides a survey of recent results in the field of compression of remote sensed 3D data, with a particular interest in hyperspectral imagery.Chapter 1 addresses compression architecture, and reviews and compares compression methods. Chapters 2 through 4 focus on lossless compression (where the decompressed image must be bit for bit identical to the original).

The large-scale acquisition of multi-temporal hyperspectral images has increased the demand for a more efficient compression strategy to reduce the large size of such images. In this work, we propose a lossless prediction-based compression technique for multi-temporal images. It removes temporal correlations along with spatial and spectral correlation, reducing the size of time-lapse ...
